

A good bill

United States Senator Jesse Helms (Rep.-N.C.) introduced a bill calling for a cut in pay for the Senators, Representatives and cabinet members when Congress fails to balance the budget.

The salaries will be reduced by the same percentage that the Federal budget is not balanced.

Helms said, "We vote for bills costing millions of dollars that do not come out of our own pockets. The taxpayer has to pay, but when this bill becomes a law we will also be penalized. We Congressmen have a choice of appropriating less money or taking a reduction in salary."

It would be nice if you taxpayers had a choice of paying less taxes when the budget goes up.

Do you think your Senators or Representatives will vote for this bill? Then let's vote for new Senators and Representatives.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Don't trust the latest predictions on what's next with prices, jobs or the economy generally.

There's no evidence today's forecasts are better than the predictions which preceded the 1974-75 recession.

Government and academic economists have not yet done the research necessary to achieve better measuring sticks. Methods are being changed, but there is little assurance the shifts will make forecasts much more reliable. All that is certain is that some of the new formulas, developed after the current recession was in full swing, would have predicted the sad shape of the economy more quickly and accurately.

But it is relatively easy to build a model which predicts the past precisely. Any economist worth his salt can keep jiggering with his equations and the data he selects until they match last year's curve. That doesn't mean his formulas will work for next year.

Basically, the problem is that economic research is in such a primitive stage that, in the mean, the experts don't know what they're measuring or what the measurements signify.

Economists are basically artists. They use the latest in computers and advanced mathematical techniques. Their equations are marvels to behold. This does not make them scientists. Science consists of precise measurements and the testing of theory against reality. Most economic theories and predictions, on the contrary, are based on assumptions which vary according to the individual philosophy of the economists concerned. Computers and mathematical equations do not correct wrong assumptions or inaccurate data.

A good game of trial and much error

But there's more to the problem than the economists. For one, the required data isn't available. Accurate economic forecasting requires hundreds of thousands—some would say millions—of bits and pieces of accurate information. Many companies, because it's not necessary for business operations, inevitably don't keep records of numbers of items economists think they want.

A great deal of the available data is kept in one form by some companies, in other forms by others. This lack of uniformity makes it next to impossible to add up results in any meaningful way.

The economists, thus far, are not, after all, certain of what data they want. They're in the process of trying one thing and another, to see what works. This would be relatively easy if they were dealing with one or two firms. But to get clear results would require that the economist be able to tell thousands of companies to change their reporting systems every so often to provide the different bits of data the economists would need for a new round of trial and error. This is obviously impossible if the economy is to keep going.

With the dollar's value, and commodity-product prices, constantly changing, the economists have not found an accurate way to compare one year's data with that of other years. They have not figured out a means for comparing a 1975 product with a 1974 model in meaningful terms.

They do not know how to compare a labor force working at full tilt and one working at lower efficiency because of a cutback in sales, but kept on the job because an employer believes he will need those same men next month or six months hence and does not want to lose them.

The economists frequently do not differentiate accurately between sales and deliveries in the detail needed, or how to measure stockpiling or inventory building with any degree of correctness, it being all too similar to "adding apples and oranges." Being able to gather this data for one product or another is one thing. Toting it all up to evaluate the state of the economy is another.

Were the good old days really that good?

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
NEW YORK— A nationwide wave of nostalgia harks us back to the late '20s and early '30s, those years that tinkled like a jolly bell—gay, delightful, reassuring. But the good old days? I wonder.

Those were the days when the president of the New York Stock Exchange went to prison, as did Hollywood emperors William Fox and Joseph Schenck. Bruno Hauptmann kidnapped the Lindbergh baby—who later on was found in a ditch, dead. And, in most places, it was better to know the judge than to know the law.

Incredibly popular Jimmy Walker was mayor of New York—elected by an astounding 400,000 votes, the largest plurality ever given. But City Hall was as crowded with grafters as Coney Island with bathers on a hot Sunday. The grafters were at last caught with their "tin boxes" by special prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey—a bright and fearless light that pierced the muck and mire of the sooty events of those bygone days.

A newspaper conspired with New Jersey's ambitious state's attorney to retry for murder, for the second time, the principals in the Hall-Mills case, members of a highly respected New Jersey family. The crux of the retrial was a character called "The Pig Woman," who proved a complete phony.

Our courts were in total shambles, graft-ridden everywhere. Crooked Boston, Chicago, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Miami, Philadelphia and other police were out of jail on easy bond. And in Tennessee, William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow sensationally debated whether Eve had indeed emerged from Adam's rib in the John T. Scopes "Monkey Trial."

America bloomed with bad hooch, beer barons, bootleggers and their Tommy guns, their diamonds and their molls.

The St. Valentine's Day Massacre in Chicago involved Brooklyn-born Mafia chieftain "Scarface" Al Capone. "Scarface" boasted that he had the Illinois politicians in his pocket and arranged to kill seven rivals in a vacant Chicago garage.

He gave them the biggest funeral of all. New York assassin "Legs" Diamond, the infamous Louis Lepke, the king of Murder Inc. and dope-traffic king Charles "Lucky" Luciano attended. The eulogy these rivals placed on the graves was typical; a gigantic wreath festooned "A True Tribute."

Madison Square Garden promoted its gruesome, month-long "Marathon Dances." Young Mae West was a household word with her "Come up and see me some time." Rudolph Valentino died, age 31. His personal debts were paid by handing his corpse to a Broadway undertaker's press agent who exhibited it at 50 cents a head in a Broadway automobile show room.

Rich Manhattan real estate operator "Daddy" Browning, a fast publicity hound on any track, rode around town in an orchid-colored Rolls-Royce. The tabloid "New York Graphic," for its readers' elevation, front-paged "Daddy" in composite pictures showing his adventures with his child bride "Peaches" rolling on a bear rug and barking "woof, woof."

Newspaper syndicates asked Texas Guinan, operating New York's best-known club joint, many-times-married Peggy Hopkins Joyce and evangelist Billy Sunday to write columns. Texas Guinan began hers with her greeting to her night club patrons: "Hello, sucker!" And our public didn't mind that one is born every minute.

A corset salesman named Henry Judd Gray killed Ruth Snyder's editor-husband with a sash weight, as they planned, and she testified under a barrage of flashlight bulbs, very perky and sexy, in the drab courthouse in Queens, Long Island. Texas Guinan, Peggy Joyce and Billy Sunday were invited to their execution in Sing Sing's electric chair and the public everywhere was treated to news photographs of the pair jerking and burning.

Ruby Keeler was one of Texas Guinan's dancers, as was George Raft. Ruby married Al Jolson, who pioneered in "The Jazz Singer," the first talking movie ever made. Both nice people, they were nevertheless menaced by extortionist hoodlums on their wedding day. Their lives were threatened.

Long ago, Horace Greely wrote: "The illusion that times that were better than those today has always prevailed." Just as today, the bad came with the good, of course, and perhaps today's disgusted millions can gain an encouraging perspective from these reminders.

World cries out for strong U.S. leadership: Reagan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is Part Two of excerpts of remarks by former Gov. Reagan at the National Headliners Club Awards Dinner, Atlantic City, N.J., May 31, 1975. The article is reprinted from Human Events.

Whether the loss of essential American resolve began in Korea or not—it was there that our country decided, for the first time, that victory was not necessary. And we carried that policy to the tragic climax in Vietnam.

In between, we were conditioned by indecision at the Bay of Pigs; indecision while the East Germans built the Berlin Wall; failure to act when the North Koreans hijacked the Pueblo; even the repeated and on-going harassment and piracy of American tuna boats off the coast of Ecuador; and our seeming willingness to give away the Panama Canal.

Some call our failures to react to provocation "forbearance." Others call it "understanding." Voices are raised each time cautioning us to reconsider world opinion. Or warning that we might unleash the madness of nuclear warfare. Somehow, it never occurs to the owners of these voices to wonder why those offering the provocation are never worried that they might start World War III and set loose the missiles.

Have we stopped to think that young Americans have seldom if ever in their lives seen America act as a great nation? None of them has any memory of an America so respected that its citizens, caught in a foreign conflict or revolution could, by simply pinning an American flag on their coat, walk safely through the battle without threat from either side. They only know an America where it isn't safe to walk through the park.

Americans today have no cause to rally to. We have come to accept the notion that freedom is not worth winning; commitments are not worth keeping; and that American citizens and American property are not worth defending.

And there are those in government, in the media and in the Congress who have taken advantage of public uncertainty and fear to divide us for their own selfish aims.

Instead of calling for victory, they have called for retreat. Instead of calling for continued American leadership in the gradual creation of a free world, they have called for withdrawal into isolationism. They have looked at the faceless masses and the growing numbers of nations behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains and still have put their faith in the never-kept promises of the keepers of the Kremlin.

Unproductive executives costly

Nonproducing executives may be costing U.S. industry more than obsolete equipment. Yet at a time when business is striving to cut costs and increase productivity, many firms ignore the drag of highly paid executives who should never have been placed in their jobs.

Cushing and Cushing, a Los Angeles consulting firm, estimates that more than 15 per cent of the executives currently at work in American industry are unqualified for their jobs. By comparison, the latest McGraw-Hill survey of capital obsolescence shows that management considers only about 11 per cent of its plant and equipment to be unproductive and obsolete.

When the Cushing estimate is projected on the Census Bureau's salary totals for the nearly nine million executives in the United States, the annual cost of the obsolete managerial talent comes to a staggering $16 billion. That doesn't include bonuses, pensions and other fringe benefits normally paid to executives.

Why is it that so many executives hold jobs they cannot perform?

There are any number of reasons, but in fast-growing companies, especially, individuals are often promoted from positions for which they were qualified into succeeding higher hobs for which they are less and less qualified (the Peter Principle).

Apparently the most frequent way a company has of getting rid of an incompetent executive is by palming him off to another company.

As to why a company would recruit an incompetent executive from another firm, the reason, says Bryant Cushing, is the common tendency of people, including top management, to assume that executives who have held prestigious jobs with prestigious firms must be highly competent—or they wouldn't have held the jobs, would they?

To avoid such an elementary blunder, companies must be willing to investigate executive candidates with greater care before hiring them, rather than relying on name, reputation or previous position.

"It's a question of comparing reality with resumes by asking the right people the right questions," says Cushing. And the "right people" include not only a candidate's former superiors but his peers and subordinates.

Nonanswers to nonquestions can turn into nonnews

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)— Daily around the noon hour the public address system in the White House press room interrupts the poker games and dice rolling to proclaim the convention of the regular briefing. What happens then is testimony to the truth that the gathering of presidential news, like the making of lunchmeat, is often a process best unwitnessed by the consumer.

Example: Some months ago when the tax cut bill was given to the White House, reporters at a briefing asked Press Secretary Ron Nessen if the President was going to sign it or veto it. Nessen replied simply: "The President is deciding." That answer, meaningless, was succeeded by 15 minutes of the following:

"Ron, can we say firmly he has made a decision?"

A. He is deciding.

"Then is it firm he has not decided?"

A. He is deciding.

"What does that mean, Ron?"

A. He is deciding.

"Well, is he, uh, leaning in one direction or the other?"

And so on.

By purpose the briefing is the shortest line between White House activity and the public's right to know. In reality it is more often used for propaganda by the administration and posturing by the press. The result commonly is that hard information seldom surfaces above the overlay of gossipy, routine pronouncements.

Actually, such is to be expected. Presidents have seldom been willing to freely divulge news other than that felt prudently obligatory, or self-serving. Press briefings, therefore have rarely supplied as much data as they've suppressed. What makes the situation more serious today is that the press remains culpable in circumstances that cheat the public. The lessons of Watergate be damned, reporters have done almost nothing to increase meaningful White House news flow and almost everything to, in effect deny it.

Not that reporters inhibit the news purposely. The rub is that their attempts to get more of it have been largely counterproductive. Where the pre-Watergate idea of White House coverage was to lounge around the press room asking questions, the idea now seems to be to lounge around asking loaded questions. Briefings remain the principal news source, therefore, but they have become so raucous that even what small value they have is diminished. Press Secretary Nessen has been so upset during briefing encounters that he has at times forgotten to announce (or purposely withheld) news items on the agenda.

Indeed the affairs have grown overripe. A minister who is also a newspaper columnist attends regularly, in collar, to ask nonquestions designed solely to force nonanswers. A woman correspondent from Texas, "a briefing regular since the days of Grant," is so irritating even fellow reporters groan and snicker.

Some White House press staffers fret privately about violence. At one briefing a reporter who felt his questions were being evaded balled his hand into an obscene gesture and pointed it at Nessen until the session ended.

At best the press corps pressure is futile. Press secretaries are hired hands, and press briefings are devices used by their employers for limited purposes. Besides, as a Nessen assistant explains, "We truthfully don't know many of the answers the press wants. Ron is not a policy maker. I am not a policy maker. The President does not actually confide in either of us to any great length. If you insist on asking how Jerry Ford views John Connally, well, go ahead ask, but we can't tell you because we just don't know."

The real problem with press briefings then is that so many reporters—and thereby so many U.S. citizens—rely so heavily on them to provide the Administration gospel. Asking officials to inform on themselves would seem a fairly obvious waste of time, yet it remains the primary strategy of White House news coverage.

So it is, one year after Richard Nixon, and in the main, the administration continues to be in control of what is seen of it, what is said of it and what is thought of it. And this as post-Watergate scribes continue to report that Jerry Ford is the most open president in memory.

Slaying of colonists provided fuel for Sam Adams' propaganda

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 15th in a series of articles on the American Revolution for the Bicentennial year prepared by the American Antiquarian Society in cooperation with the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation.

No one knows precisely where Sam Adams was on the night of March 5, 1770.

He may have been home, his palsied head nodding vigorously in the candlelight as he penned another of his atrocity stories about the British troops that had been occupying Boston for the past 18 months.

Adams almost certainly was not physically present in front of the old State House on King Street (now State Street) where the lone British sentry was being taunted and threatened by a gang of toughs. He did not see the British troops marching to the scene on the double, facing the angry mob with guns ready.

But when those long muskets spit orange fire in a ragged thunderous volley, leaving three men dead and two mortally injured on the bloody cobblestones, the way was open for the master propagandist to achieve his greatest triumph to date. The rowdy street violence became the "Boston Massacre." The slain citizens, Samuel Gray, James Caldwell, Samuel Maverick, Patrick Carr and Crispus Attucks (first black man to die in the revolutionary struggle) were eulogized at a huge public funeral and became martyrs to the cause of liberty.

It was the most striking example of public relations and advocacy journalism the colonies had ever seen.

Adams and his radical colleagues had been whipping up popular feelings against the British since the Stamp Act, five years before. That act was repealed, but Parliament passed the Townshend Revenue Act of 1767. The outcry that greeted the Stamp Act was reand quartered in Boston.

The Americans thought them a scurvy lot. James Otis said they stunk—literally. Boston was an occupied town, and Sam Adams made the most of it. His "Journal of the Times," reprinted in newspapers up and down the colonies, charged the British redcoats with the most revolting crimes. Every incident was magnified out of proportion. Steadily, the fever of hatred grew.

Two weeks before the Boston Massacre, a hated customs informer, Ebenezer Richardson, fired into a mob that was threatening his home. A boy, Christopher Seider, was fatally wounded and Richardson was lucky to escape lynching. He was tried and convicted but never sentenced. The broadside reproduced here shows that the Patriots thought Richardson guilty of murder and that justice had not been carried out.

The Boston Massacre increased the voltage of public indignation tenfold. No deed was too dreadful for Sam Adams to attribute to the British. Never mind that his own cousin, John Adams, successfully defended the British soldiers and their commander in court. Never mind that the men who had been killed had not been nighly regarded in Boston. Samuel Adams skillfully if cynically used the event to promote what had been developing in his mind since 1765—Independence from Britain.

Anniversaries of the massacre were commemorated for years by Bostonians as they held demonstrations, listened to "massacre" orations and read Patriot Versions of the affair in the newspapers. Another propaganda device was the publication of broadsides, of which "A Monumental Inscription on the Fifth of March" is an excellent example. It was published in Boston in 1772 by the Patriot printer, Isaiah Thomas.

It includes a woodcut by Paul Revere that differs in some details from the more famous engraving of the Boston Massacre that helped fix the event forever in the minds and hearts of the American people.

EBENEZER RICHARDSON,

Convicted of MURDER.

AMERICANS!
BEAR IN REMEMBRANCE
THE HORRID MASSACRE!
Perpetrated in King-Street, Boston,
New-England,
On the Evening of March the Fifth, 1770.
When FIVE of your fellow countrymen,
GRAY, MAYERICK, CALDWELL, ATTUCKS,
and CARR,
Lay wallowing in their Gore!
Being left, and most redundantly
MURDERED!
And SIX others badly wounded!
By a Party of the XXIXth Regiment,
Under the command of Capt. Tho. Preston.
P. M. F. S. A!
That Two of the MURDERERS
Were convicted of MANSLAUGHTER!
By a Jury, of whom I shall say NOTHING.
Branded in the hand!
And disgraced,
The others were ACQUITTED,
And their Capains PENSIONED!
Allo,
BEAR IN REMEMBRANCE
That on the 22d Day of February, 1770.
The infamous
EBENEZER RICHARDSON, Informer,
And cool to Ministerial hirelings,
Most barbarously
MURDERED
CHRISTOPHER SEIDER,
An innocent youth!
Of which crime he was found guilty
By his Country
On Friday April 20th, 1770;
But remained Unsentenced
On Saturday the 22d Day of February, 1772.
When the GRAND INQUEST

Were informed, at request,
By the Judges of the Superior Court,
That EBENEZER RICHARDSON's Case
Then lay before his Majesty.
Therefore said Richardson
This day, MARCH FIFTH 1772, Remains UNRANGED!!
Let these things be told to Posterity!
And handed down
From Generation to Generation,
Till Time shall be no more!
Forever may AMERICA be preferred,
From weak and wicked monarchs,
Tyrannical Ministers,
Abandoned Governors,
Their Underlings and Hirelings!
And may the

AWAKE my drowfy Thoughts! Awake my muse!
Awake O earth, and tremble at the news!
In grand defiance to the laws of God,
The Guilty, Guilty murd'rer walks abroad.
That city mourns, (the cry comes from the ground,)
Where law and justice never can be found:
Oh! sword of vengeance, fall thou on the race
Of those who hinder justice from its place.
O MURD'ER! RICHARDSON! with their latest breath
Millions will curse you when you sleep in death!
Infernal horrors fure will shake your foul
When o'er your head the awful thunders roll.
Earth cannot hide you, always will the cry
Of Murder! Murder! haunt you 'till you die!
To yonder grave! with trembling joints repair,
Remember, SEIDER's corps lies mould'ring there;
There drop a tear, and think what you have done!
Then judge how you can live beneath the Sun.
A PARDON may arrive! You laws defy,
But Heaven's laws will stand when KINGS shall die.
Oh! Wretched man! the monster of the times,
You were not hung "by reason of old Lines,"
Old Lines thrown by, 'twas then we were in hopes,
That you would foon be hung with new made Ropes *
But neither Ropes nor Lines, will satisfy
For SEIDER's blood! But GOD is ever nigh,
And guilty souls will not unpunish'd go
Tho' they're excus'd by judges here below!
You are enlarg'd but curld is your fate
Tho' Custling's eas'd you from the prison gate
The Bridge of Tories, it has borne you o'er
Yet you e'er long may meet with HELL's dark shore.

* Lines, the name of one of the judges
+ Name of another judge, only appearing
* Do you another, the judge
* Remembrance one of the judge

This broadside (or poster) was printed in Boston in 1772. It recalled the Boston Massacre and the death of a boy named Christopher Seider during riots of February and March 1770. Patriot propagandists were working hard to keep anti-British feeling alive. They commemorated the Boston Massacre in various ways, and they railed in the broadside against the authorities for letting Ebenezer Richardson, a hated customs informer, go unpunished after killing Christopher Seider.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-621: Joe M., aged 16,
is a high school sophomore.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "My dad is a doctor, too, and has already informed my sisters and me about sex."

"But our high school makes a mistake by embarrassing the students."

"For it conducts sex hygiene classes with both the boys and girls present in the same class."

"That is not only embarrassing to the boys but even more so to the girls."

"For pictures are shown on the screen about breast tumors and the girls are urged to feel their own breasts to see if any possible lumps are in them."

"Most of the girls come from educated homes, but they blush and then fail to ask any questions when the teacher later opens the session to discussion."

"The boys are likewise tongue-tied, for neither sex likes this discussion of venereal disease and childbirth, when in a mixed audience."

"Who is behaving this attempt to expose a mixed audience of high schoolers to such private medical talks?"

The Overkill Fallacy
The pendulum swings from one extreme to another in many phases of human society.

When I started this "Worry Clinic," many prudish educators and even some editors regarded me as too frank.

Some of them actually cancelled this column just because I made this statement, without any additional comment:

"Divorce usually starts in the bedroom!"

Does that sound unduly
"frank" or in poor taste to you
modern readers?

Twenty years later, Ann Landers used my very same quote and editors thought it was splendid.

So you can see the radical shift of the pendulum in 20 years time.

Indeed, the Chicago Tribune about 1942 even deleted the word "syphilis" from my daily newspaper Quiz Column when I ran this four-answer question:

"Which one of these ailments
is never inherited? FEEBLE-MINDEDNESS - DEAFNESS -
SYPHILIS - COLORBLIND-NESS"

When I laughed at their ultra prudish reaction, especially since they had boasted about being the first newspaper to print the word "syphilis," they finally agreed to substitute

"Venereal Disease" for that horrendous word "Syphilis."

Even now, I still employ discreet language, such as "Boudoir Cheesecake" and "Erotic Calories" instead of lewd or four-letter words regarding sexual education.

But Joe is certainly 100 per cent correct in saying it is still very embarrassing to high schoolers to be exposed to illustrated sex lectures when in a mixed class.

Besides, that chokes off most of the questions that would otherwise be asked by the girls,
if they were in a female audience,
or the boys, if they were likewise in their own male group.

Even during the "Question & Answer" forums following my public lectures, the sponsoring organization will not receive 10 per cent of the usual questions, if they are asked aloud in such a mixed audience, as if the crowd can write down its queries on a slip of paper and pass them to the ushers.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and avoid public embarrassment.

(Always write to Dr. Crane
in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing.)

Salem, Mass., with its sheltered harbor, was a maritime town from its beginning in the early colonial period. During the Revolution, Salem, the only port of any significance not to fall into British hands, contributed to the war by supplying privateers. More than 200
Salem vessels were commissioned by the Continental Congress.

Combination of sweets and sour adds subtle flavor to many kinds of dishes and serves to pep up meats which without the additional seasoning tend to be bland. The Pennsylvania Dutch are past masters in such blends with vegetables while Polynesians more often use them to accent meats.

This dish is a little of both, turning out some wonderful pork chops which are delightfully different. To serve 4 select 8 chops which are small but cut to medium thickness. Sprinkle chops on both sides with salt and pepper and dust with flour. Brown chops on both sides in bacon drippings.

While chops are browning, mix in a saucepan 1/4 cup (tightly packed) brown sugar, 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons soya sauce, and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Heat and stir to make a thin syrup. To this mixture add 1/4 cup chopped green onions, including tops, and 1 whole green pepper, seeded, trimmed and chopped coarsely.

When chops are brown, pour sweet-sour mixture over them, cover and cook over low heat for 50 minutes. At this time uncover and sprinkle over 1 cup coarsely grated carrots. Put cover on again and continue to cook for another 10 minutes when carrots will still be crisp but heated through. Swerve over browned feathery rice.

Wash and drain 1 cup long grain rice. In a medium skillet melt 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and add 1 tablespoon of salad oil (which keeps butter from burning).

Add rice to skillet and brown well, stirring often. When browned, put rice in a casserole. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt, and pour over 2 1/4 cups of chicken stock or bouillon.

Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour when rice will be light and feathery to the touch of a spoon. To serve, put rice on a hot plate, top with 2 chops and spoon over the sweet-sour gravy generously.

With the chops and rice we serve buttered asparagus or broccoli spears and in summer a bowl of sliced cucumbers and onion rings in a vinegar sauce which rounds out the meal beautifully.

TREASURE BARGAINS GALORE — FROM ALL OVER THE STORE

TREASURE HUNTERS! You'll strike it rich here now. This GIANT storewide clearance is loaded with furnishings you'll prize — at rich savings. It's literally packed with treasures from every department. And their bargain prices bear no relation to their superior value!

Matter of fact, this clearance could easily offer you your greatest treasure-finding opportunity in years! All because of the gyrations of 1975's economy. The inflation-bloated prices we had to pay for stock in the early 70's have vanished. (Good riddance!) And all 1975-long, manufacturers have been offering our buyers furnishings with EXTRA quality, EXTRA features, EXTRA luxury details . . . at far, far less than their regular markups! All in a concentrated effort to breath new life into a sagging, slumping market. We've loved their offers, and bought heavily. Sold heavily, too, because these savings were passed directly on to you. But now it's time to clear. What's left has got to go. Quickly. That means big reductions. And these big reductions, on top of originally deflated prices, add up to the GIANT savings you see everywhere on this page! And throughout the store!

So make home lovelier now. Your way. Whether you want to spread luscious carpeting from your front door to your back . . . Or make your living room a showplace of style and hospitality . . . Or dress your dining room as you've dreamed it should be . . . Or create a bedroom that's a world away from the world . . . Or simply add a piece here and there . . . NOW is definitely your best time. In years!

No one who loves home can afford to miss this sale. Right here, waiting for you, could easily be exactly what you're wanting. And at a price that makes it the buy of your lifetime. So come join the happy treasure hunters here. Search out your most desired furnishings. Make them your own. Former Dixon girl weds

PARK RAPIDS, Minn. — Miss Crystal Lynn Gustafson became the wife of Gary Leslie Day in a recent afternoon ceremony at Timberlane Lodge. The bride is a former Dixon resident and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Gustafson, Park Rapids, Minn. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Day, Menahga, Minn.

The Timberlane Lodge was decorated with boxwood roping, white satin bows and clusters of stephanotis on an open stairway. The aisle led to a prayer bench flanked by potted birch trees in a Bay window where the Rev. Ronald Koch performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Linda Szusitzky, Park Rapids, played the organ. The soloist was Mrs. Bruce Otterson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown designed with a bodice of white bridal satin. White Alencon lace trimmed the V-neckline and deep-cuffed lantern sleeves. The natural waistline was ringed in lace medallions. Her full-flared skirt of debut crepe flowed into a full-fan shaped train. Full-length silk illusion cascades fell from a garden hat of white organza appliqued in re-embroidered Alencon lace. For something old, the bride wore her great-grandmother's engagement bracelet. Her colonial bouquet combined stephanotis, white roses and pittedporum.

Best man was Fred Bagley, Missoula, Mont., Mr. Mark Gustafson, Park Rapids, Dan Breitbach, Osage, Minn., and Ed Dorsey, Faribault, Minn., served as groomsmen. A Champagne buffet dinner was held in honor of the couple following the ceremony at the Timberlane Lodge. Wedding cake was served by Mrs. William Vagle. Punch was served by Miss Patricia Wittman.

The bride is a graduate of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., where she received a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing. She is currently completing a Master of Science degree in nursing. She was affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta social sorority.

The groom is a graduate of Moorhead State College, Moorhead, Minn., where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in biology. He is presently attending University of Montana studying for a Masters of Science degree in wildlife biology.

Following their wedding trip, the new Mr. and Mrs. Day will reside in Missoula, Mont. The bride and groom were entertained at "His and Her" shower in Dixon given by Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Sinow and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bangston.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Bennett, Clayton, Ill., who wore a Kelly green floor length dress featuring coplet sleeves and a modified empire bodice. The gown was styled with a draped wateau back and princess gathered shirred neckline.

Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Day, Menahga, Minn., Mrs. Chris Schweer, Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Henry C. Shelton III, Memphis, Tenn. They wore gowns identical to the matron of honor's. The attendants each carried bouquets of stephanotis, white roses and pittedporum.

By Oswald & James Jacoby East's spade overcall is not recommended, but in any event, North-South would arrive at three notrump.

Malcolm Brachman of Dallas, who held the South cards, won the first trick in dummy and decided to attack clubs rather than hearts. Probably it would have been better technique to start the hearts and put in the 10 after East followed low, but with West holding the heart jack that play was not going to succeed.

The club attack appears hopeless also. Anyway Malcolm led a club to his ace, returned to dummy with a second spade and led a club toward his hand. East discarded a spade and Malcolm played his king.

At this point Malcolm made the sort of play that winners come up with on occasion.

He needed three heart tricks and proceeded to get them by leading his 10 of hearts!

West could have covered with the jack and still beaten the hand by winning a second heart and knocking out dummy's ace of diamonds but no one can blame West for ducking. When the 10 held it was a simple matter to cash the king of spades, lead the queen of hearts and wind up with three spades, three hearts, two clubs, a diamond and a top score. 23 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

AARP to sponsor a Chicago trip

The Lee County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons are sponsoring a bus tour to Chicago and a boat trip on Lake Michigan on Wednesday, July 30.

The group will leave the Loveland House parking lot at 11:30 a.m. and will have dinner at 5 p.m., in Chicago. The cost will be $12 and should accompany reservations to Mrs. Ethelyn Leggett, 1000 Washington Ave., Dixon.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — A couple of months ago I bought a spring coat with a navy blue lining and now the lining is changing color around the hem and looks orange-red. Do you know why this happened? — MARGARET.

DEAR MARGARET — Since the color change is around the hem it could not be from perspiration or even be caused by exposure to sunlight. I think you should take the coat back to the store where it was purchased and show it to them. There is something wrong with the fabric if it has not been subjected to an accident of any kind. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — One of my Pet Peeves is that when I go to a shower and the gifts are opened I see how the gift recipient has to struggle opening the boxes that small appliances and hosiery come in. They are usually stapled together with large staples that are impossible to remove without pliers or a screw driver. Trying to open them often causes broken nails, scraped knuckles and a lot of frustration.

I think anyone giving such a gift should remove or at least loosen such staples before wrapping the gift. Gunned tape could be used to keep the box closed and tape is certainly easier to remove than staples. — LUPITA.

DEAR POLLY — When washing woolen gloves I slip a round clothespin into each finger to keep them from shrinking. They hold their shape better and even dry faster.

Most old plastic and leather purses are great to use for making slippers, shoes and boots for dolls. Such material is pliable and can be sewn on the machine.

To avoid losing my children's gloves I sew the top of the glove to the front of the jacket sleeve.

When storing your ironing board on end slip a paper bag over the end on which it stands to keep the cover clean.

Cut notch marks on a pattern so that they go out rather than in on the material. This helps prevent fraying and also allows a bit more material if the garment has to be let out.

Wear a terry cloth apron when sewing slippery fabric. (Polly's note: If you do not have such an apron pin a big bath towel around your waist.)

Sheet blankets are never long or wide enough to tuck in when used as a bottom sheet. I pin a blanket to a fitted sheet and sew them together with a long stitch. In summer the stitches are easily removed and the sheet is used alone. — MRS. M.D.

DEAR POLLY — My daughter-in-law was complaining about the fibers in her carpet being so stiff after she shampooed it. I suggested that she put some fabric softener in with the shampoo she was using when she next cleaned her rug and she did. This left the fibers soft and gave the rug a nice fragrance, too. — DOT.

Summer salads go bananas

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor
Bananas are an accomodating fruit mixing well with many fruits and vegetables. For a non-heavy but nourishing summer salad put together a medley of fresh fruits such as bananas, cantaloupe, peaches, red cherries and green grapes. Top this handsome combination with a cottage cheese lime dressing. Serve on a bed of crisp lettuce, with hot corn or bran muffins.

BANANA CLUB SALAD
2 cups cut up cooked chicken
2 chopped peeled tomatoes
1/4 cup chopped parsley
8 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
Salad greens

In large bowl combine chicken, tomatoes, parsley and bananas. Add 1/2 Club Dressing. Mix well. Spoon onto a bed of salad greens and sprinkle with bacon. Serve with remaining dressing. Makes 4 servings.

CLUB DRESSING
1/2 cup mayonnaise
4 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Bananas star in a summer salad of fresh fruits.

In medium bowl mix together all ingredients.

BUFFET BANANA FRUIT SALAD

1 cantaloupe
Salad greens
4 peaches, peeled and sliced
1 bunch seedless grapes, separated into clusters
1/2 pound sweet cherries
3 bananas

Peel cantaloupe, cut in half and remove seeds. Cut into 6 crosswise slices. Line a platter with salad greens. Arrange cantaloupe, peaches, grapes and cherries on greens. Peel bananas, cut in diagonal slices and place on cantaloupe rings. Serve with Cottage Cheese Lime Dressing. Makes 6 servings.

COTTAGE CHEESE LIME DRESSING

1 cup cottage cheese
1/4 teaspoon grated lime rind
3 tablespoons lime juice
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1/8 teaspoon ginger

In blender container combine all ingredients. Cover and process at high speed until smooth or beat until smooth.

MISS KAY ANN GILMOUR

Mr. Glenn Gilmour wishes to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Kay Ann, to David L. Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rhodes, Dixon.

Miss Gilmour and Mr. Rhodes are both graduates of Dixon High School. She is presently employed at Montgomery Ward. Mr. Rhodes attended Sauk Valley for two years and is now employed by HWI.

The couple plan a September 20 wedding at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Dixon.

Do-it-yourself food book

By GAYNOR MADDOX

A new down-to-earth food book breathes country air, shows how to conquer country food problems and induces even city folk to follow the common-sense rules of nitty gritty living. For many it is merely a fun book. For others it can become a primer to a new way of simpler and practical living.

Sheryll Patterson Herdt starts off her "Nitty Gritty Food Book" with, "I thank my animals Sukie, Fritz, Shaman, Valentine, Sally and others for teaching me and for eating my mistakes." That is a good start. Then she explains that her book is based on classes on nitty gritty foods at the Boulder, Colo., Community Free School. Her recipes are partly from her grandmother, from her own experimenting and from others interested in wholesome, inexpensive and do-it-yourself cooking. The emphasis on do-it-yourself is large. That is her way of combating our present habit of buying mostly prepared foods.

She devotes serious attention to the matter of sourdough bread. That interested me particularly because my ancestors were California pioneers in the 49er period. Sourdough is becoming highly popular all over the United States, though originally it was a pioneer specialty. She writes: Old sourdough starters have two main origins—the Alaska Gold Rush and the California Gold Rush. Water is the base of the Alaska starter; milk is the base of the California starter. Old-time prospectors took their sourdough pot to bed with them at night to keep it warm and working. On long cold journeys, they often wore it, thickened with flour, in a bag around their neck.

"Sourdough is a nutritious food. During the sourdough process the sugar and starch convert to lactic acid which gives it the sour odor and also creates usable protein.

"Soda can be added to the batter just before baking to make it lighter but never add soda to the starter or it will kill the yeast. Mix sourdough in a glass or pottery container. Never use metal and never leave a metal spoon in the container. She follows with a complete recipe for her sourdough starter which, she tells us, is more than 100 years old.

There is lots more to the "Nitty Gritty Food Book" by Sheryll Patterson Herdt (Praeger Publishers, $8.95; paperback, $4.95). It describes an old-fashioned coal burning kitchen stove, tells how to make cheese, tells you how to discover natural foods from your country surroundings and even advises you on how to raise small animals for food and pleasure. It also includes instructions for making soap and candles. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Buy Indian jewelry with special caution

The great mass of Indian jewelry on today's market is an attractive and popular purchase for the collector and the casual customer.

But outside the Southwestern United States where some regulations are used to control the sale of Indian jewelry the rule for buyers is, "Be Careful."

William R. Lancaster, writing in "The International Turquoise Association," offers some suggestions for determining the quality of the jewelry you own or plan to buy.

He suggests that the piece be studied through a 10-power hand lens, if possible. Individual hand work is less precise than stamped edges and lines. If the piece was handstamped there will be slight irregularities "though if the work is good the naked eye would not normally pick them up."

Look for a silvermark of the craftsman. If one is stamped on the back "Your odds of value go up, everything else being positive."

If your piece is handcrafted, study the detail of the silverwork. Joints should be even and well-soldered. The design should be consistent with a solid appearance.

"Study the turquoise in the piece. Is it well cut? Do the stones match well? Does it fit snug in the setting?" You also will want to study the matrix and color of the stone.

"A detailed design done well took someone a lot more time than a plain or sloppy one. You have to go by logic. It's your own weapon," Lancaster points out.

And he cautions, "For every conceivable opportunity, you can bet that some unscrupulous fast buck artist has found a loophole."

It is not our intent to prevent you from buying Indian jewelry, but only to urge you, the consumer, to use caution, knowledge and good sense when making your purchases. This is a field in which prices have rapidly increased in recent years and continue to rise at a fast pace.

It is also a field controlled in part by fashion fads so what is popular today may be replaced by a different style tomorrow.

You should get $50 value from a $50 price. One way to safeguard your purchase is to choose a dealer carefully and use his judgment. And you might look for the IACA decal on the dealer's window.

This decal of the Indian Arts and Crafts Association is used by members who subscribe to a general code of ethics. A new trade organization, The International Turquoise Association, is now in the formative stage. It will have two objectives. The first will be to provide technical services for members and the second will be enforcement of an association code of ethics stressing honorable business dealings. Both of these organizations will work together for the consumer's benefit. We can only applaud their efforts. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Picnic is planned

The Palmyra Ladies Aid Society will hold their annual summer picnic Sunday at 1 p.m., in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lefevre, 805 Palmyra Avenue.

Members and their families are welcome.

The usual picnic standards of the past will prevail, so please bring a dish to pass.

FOR FUR'S SAKE

Those who neglected to store their small furs—stoles, capes, sweaters or little jackets—during the early weeks of summer should make another foray into the closet. Remove them to a cool closet where they can hang separately without being bunched together. Do not cover with any plastic since this blocks air circulation.

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—Recently, thinking I was having a heart attack, my husband rushed me to the hospital. We know that I have a heart condition, "beginning heart failure." I was given oxygen, put on the heart monitor, and an intravenous started promptly in the emergency room.

We were told later that I had not had a heart attack, but that I had gone into shock, probably because of severe chest pain. The cause of the pain was never determined, but a hiatal hernia was discovered by the X rays. Could you explain what is going on when a person is in shock?

Why was I kept in the intensive coronary care unit at the hospital on the heart monitor and on oxygen the whole time (four days)? They said that my blood pressure had dropped to 50, then went too high.

DEAR READER—It is wise to put a patient with known heart disease who develops severe chest pain, in the hospital for observation. Sometimes it is not possible to tell if a patient has had a heart attack or not until after a period of observation and tests.

Shock can be caused from pain of any origin. Basically, shock is circulatory failure, where the heart fails to pump enough blood or the blood is not properly circulated. A simple faint is a mild form of shock, because blood is not circulated in sufficient amounts to the brain.

Obviously you needed treatment for shock, which is ample reason to have you in a coronary care unit and your circulation monitored.

Pain induces shock through reflex mechanisms that either inhibit the normal beating of the heart or tend to dilate the blood vessels, causing the blood pressure to fall. A simple needle stick can induce fainting as mild shock, or in rare cases cause a deeper form of shock; even death has been known to follow rather simple medical procedures in apparently healthy individuals.

I can't begin to tell you what caused your chest pain. It could have been caused by pain from a spasm of your food tube (esophagus) to the stomach. This can occur from the reflux of acid digestive juice into the esophagus from the stomach as part of the problem of hiatal hernia through the diaphragm. Proper care of hiatal hernia can minimize this problem.

You can have chest pain from the heart, the esophagus or from a sudden blood clot to the lungs or even from a tear in the aorta, the main artery from the heart to the rest of the body other than the lungs. There are many other causes as well.

It is important for anyone who develops sudden chest pain to have immediate medical attention. A large number of deaths from heart disease occur because medical help and facilities are not available soon enough. So don't procrastinate, call your doctor or get help if you have sudden chest pain.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, July 23, the 204th day of 1975. There are 161 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Austria issued an ultimatum to Serbia after the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand. The dispute preceded the outbreak of the First World War.

On this date: In 1588, an English army assembled at Tilbury on the Thames River to repel an invasion of England by the Spanish Armada.

In 1828, William Burt of Mount Vernon, Mich. received a patent for his "typographer." It may have been the first typewriter.

In 1945, Marshal Henri Petain was put on trial, charged with betraying France in World War II.

In 1952, General Mohamed Naguib seized power in Egypt. In 1958, Queen Elizabeth named four women to the peerage. They became the first women to sit in Britain's House of Lords.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Senate confirmed Arthur Goldberg as United States representative at the United Nations after a brief, friendly hearing.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball star Don Drysdale is 39 years old. The one-time shortstop for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, Pee-wee Reese, is 56.

Thought for today: To teach is to learn — Japanese proverb.

Frost hits coffee; prices will climb

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — An estimated three quarters of Brazil's coffee crop has been hit by frost, meaning housewives around the world may be paying 50 per cent more for coffee by this fall.

All exports have been halted until the full damage can be assessed. Camilo Calazans de Magalhaes, president of Brazil's Coffee Institute, said Monday that the frosts over the past week were the worst in 50 years, that trees were damaged "nearly down to their roots," and that this will affect the next two growing seasons.

"We were trying to produce as much as 28 million bags in the next (1976-77) crop, but now, with the frosts, we will be lucky if we produce 10 or 12 million bags," he said.

Brazil, the world's largest coffee producer, exported 12.1 million bags last year, more than half of it to the United States. In all, Brazil supplies a third of all world coffee sales.

There has been fierce trading on the London coffee market because of the Brazilian crisis and the price has advanced an unprecedented 62 per cent in two days. On Monday, the price for coffee to be traded in September skyrocketed $391 per metric ton, closing at $1,881.

"The Brazilian crop which has been partly destroyed is next year's, but it is present prices which are affected and it is these which manufacturers must pay to replenish existing stocks," the Financial Times of London said.

Experts of the Brazilian Rural Society estimated the 1976 coffee harvest would be only four million bags compared with 27 million in 1975.

In the first five months of 1975, Brazil exported 1.2 million bags of coffee, far below initial projections of 17 million bags.

THREE EASY WAYS TO 'CHARGE-IT'

You don't sell garages at a Garage Sale?

No, you don't sell garages at a garage sale!

In fact, some people hold garage sales who don't even have a garage!

Then what's it all about? It's about making some extra money, either for something special for your family (like a really big vacation this year!), or for a pet charity or church project. And it's all a lot of fun!

How do you hold a garage sale? And where? And when? And what do you do to attract a crowd?

You hold a garage sale by gathering together the many useful items you have around your home...things like bicycles, furniture, musical instruments, sporting equipment, clothing, and the like. (You might want to ask a neighbor or a friend to go into this happy project with you!)

You hold your garage sale in your garage...or on your patio, or in your backyard, or on the front lawn, any place where you can display the items you have for sale and can accommodate a crowd of people.

You can pick your date...any day, any time. Many people prefer Saturdays because more people are off work and thus able to attend, but any day is a good day.

And you attract a crowd the easiest possible way, just by picking up your telephone and dialing 284-2222, well in advance of your selected date. A friendly voice will answer your call and help you word and place your crowd-gathering Want Ad which tells the public about your sale.

You're all set! You're sure to have a good time, meet some nice people who will happily exchange cash for the items you have for sale...and you might have a prospective buyer for your garage!

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH

DIXON, ILLINOIS

Preacher admits and begins to repay $3,000 theft in 1961

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The Rev. W. C. Hunter has begun restitution to ease an aching conscience.

Hunter, pastor of the World's Church of the Living God here, said that he stole $3,000 from a food store 14 years ago while "obsessed with gambling and wild ways."

"Unbelievable," said Don Blevins, store manager, when Hunter went to the store and made a $50 payment this week to repay the theft.

"Now I can feel truly free," the minister said. "I can look my people in the eyes and tell them that I have sinned, but I have sought and received forgiveness from God and man."

The pastor said he expected to be arrested when he owned up to the theft. But flabbergasted police told him after consulting the district attorney that he would remain free because the statute of limitations had long since run out on the crime.

Hunter said that when he was 25 he was so obsessed with gambling that he often sold his family's food and furniture — his three children were then young — to get money for card games and whiskey.

He recalled that he worked at the store as a clerk and that one evening a lock on the safe broke and the late manager hid the day's receipts in a produce bin. He said he hid in a storage area until other employees had left and then took the money.

"Man, I felt good with that big sack of money," he recalled. "I bought a half a pint of gin, went to a pool hall to celebrate and afterwards went home... and I rolled the money up bill by bill and 'stuck them in Christmas balls."

"That was more money than I had ever seen in my life. Everytime I ran low on money for whisky or gambling, I would just run home and break some of them."

In about one month the money was gone, he said. "I threw it away on the gambling tables and in the alleys."

The metamorphosis of W. C. Hunter, scoundrel, into W. C. Hunter, reverend, began about 10 years ago when he returned from a 72-hour gambling binge to a home devoid of furniture.

"I had been out drinking and gambling and the first thing I saw when I walked in the door was my kids sitting on the cold floor, wrapped in coats to keep warm," he said.

"My wife was sitting there in front of the fireplace throwing old shoes into the fire to keep the kids warm. I can still smell that leather burning."

"She was sitting there on a tin can, throwing them shoes into the fire and reading the New Testament. I got so mad, feeling like God was the cause of my bad life, that I grabbed it out of her hands and threw it into the fire."

He then tried to kill himself by slashing his wrists, he said. "I don't know how, but I was still alive the next morning and I told God then that I was going to dedicate my life to Him," he said.

"I had always blamed the other folks for my troubles, the white man, the Uncle Tom, but the fault was within me and God set me free."

People in the news

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Singer Cher and musician Greg Allman have left on separate flights after spending 4½ days together in suburban West Seneca.

A law firm representing Allman arranged the secluded accommodations, and a lawyer called the meeting a "very personal encounter."

The lawyer added, however, that the meeting may not have changed the status of Cher's California divorce suit citing irreconcilable differences with Allman, who is with the Allman Brothers band.

Cher, who filed for divorce only nine days after the couple's wedding, flew to Los Angeles Monday to resume work on her TV show.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — William Peter Blatty, author of the bestselling novel "The Exorcist," and amateur tennis star Linda Tuero have been married here.

Asked by friends why he decided to marry, Blatty replied: "An angel made me do it."

Blatty, 47, and Miss Tuero, 23, of New Orleans were married Sunday. It was the third marriage for Blatty.

Guests included Mario Puzo, author of "The Godfather," and comedians Don Rickles and Buddy Hackett.

NEW YORK (AP) — An American Broadcasting Company spokesman said Monday night that former chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations John Scali will return to ABC News shortly as a Washington correspondent.

The spokesman said ABC and Scali, 57, have reached agreement on his return to the network, where he was a diplomatic correspondent before entering government.

Everyone a winner in Rochelle pet show

ROCHELLE — Everyone went home a winner, with their pets proudly wearing the blue ribbons they had received at the annual Pet Show held at the Prairie in Rochelle.

This year there were fewer animals shown than in previous years, but the variety remained the same.

Thirty-eight dogs of all sizes and breeds were registered by their young owners. Cats numbered 13, from a 3-week-old kitten to an 8-year-old cat. There were 14 stuffed animals shown by the youngest children, and 15 assorted animals such as rabbits, mice, frogs, parrots and gerbils.

All the animals paraded in a large circle, with the dogs in the lead, followed by cats, stuffed animals and others in cages. Judging was done from the center of the circle, giving the spectators a better view of all the animals. Pony rides were offered the children attending, and balloons were given to the contestants from the Sauk Valley Human Society float displayed on the grounds.

Judges for this year were

Gordon Winders and Mrs. Estelle Von Zellen. The Pet Show is an annual event sponsored by the Flag-Township Library and the Flag-Rochelle Community Park District.

The show was originally started by children's librarian Mrs. Helen Larson 16 years ago on the lawn of the library, but soon outgrew the space and was moved to the Prairie.

Probation in car death

OREGON — Robert Joskoskie, 18, Kings, was sentenced this morning to 270 days periodic imprisonment and placed on four years probation on a conviction for reckless homicide. Joskoskie was found guilty of the charge which stemmed from the death of Karen Pohlhammer, 23, Rochelle on April 5.

Sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge F. Lawrence Lenz during a hearing in Ogle County Circuit Court.

The victim was a passenger in a car driven by Joan Cummins, Rochelle, when the auto was struck at the Rochelle intersection of North Third Street and Tenth Avenue. Joskoskie reportedly drove through a stop sign on Third Street and slammed into the Cummins auto around pushing it against a utility pole.

Goodwill truck here July 30

Every householder can help the handicapped to help themselves by contributing clothing, shoes, housewares and other items to Abilities Center Goodwill Industries.

The Goodwill truck will be in Dixon, July 30 to collect materials for the sheltered workshop, according to Mrs. Billy Jo Leneer local Goodwill representative.

The repairable household goods and clothing you no longer need are needed by non-profit Goodwill and a call to 284-6010 will bring the truck to your door.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Earle D. Stitzel, Kelle Gillan, Chuck Bohn, today.

Deaths, Funerals

Warren R. Portner

Warren Raymond Portner, 81, 615 Spruce St., died early today at Swedish American Hospital.

He was born Nov. 4, 1893, at Sterling, the son of Jacob and Henrietta (Allpress) Portner, and was married to the former Lucille Holtzauer, June 28, 1924, at Dixon. Portner was a retired employee of the Home Lumber Company where he had been employed for 19 years.

One sister, five brothers and one half-sister preceded him in death.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Crusty (Arlene) Lupo and Mrs. Robert (Phyllis) Dalgas, both of Dixon; three sisters, Mrs. Francis Toms, Polo; Mrs. Ruth Musgrave, Sterling, and Mrs. Edith Houston, Rockford; six grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in Chapel Hill Funeral Home with the Rev. Dwight Von Ahnen officiating. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Memorial Park. Visitation will be Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the funeral home.

A memorial for the heart fund has been established.

Polo Council hears pleas from citizens

POLO — Two Polo citizens attended the Monday Polo City Council meeting with requests for solutions to their problems.

Jack Lawson, who is one of the few residents with an out-house, asked if it was possible to attach to the city sewer or could he put in a septic tank. Mayor Riley Johnson referred this matter to the sewer and sanitation committee.

Mrs. John Hess told about the high weeds and grass in different yards in the northwest section of Polo and asked if the city could see about having them cut down. This was referred to the street department.

The alderman adopted the bills for June which were read by City Treasurer, Nora Lee Gray.

Other action taken by the council members was the approval of William Samuel to serve as an auxiliary member of the Polo Police Department.

Robbery in Tampico

TAMPICO — Two men are being sought by Tampico Police Department and Whiteside County Sheriff's Department in connection with the robbery of a Tampico home.

The men being sought are wanted in connection with a robbery at the Mrs. Clara Boelens home, 103 E. Fourth St., Tampico. The men allegedly entered the home, tied Mrs. Boelens' hands and feet with nylon tape, and then fled in an unknown direction with a safe. An undetermined amount of cash was in the safe.

The first subject was described as medium build, fairly tall with long dark hair and a beard. The second man was described as being of a heavy build, with long dark hair and clean shaven.

The investigation into the robbery is continuing by the two departments.

Few-week babysitting job lasts six years

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Six years ago, a young black couple asked Mae Ducharm to baby-sit their two-week-old daughter for a few weeks.

The 68-year-old white woman still has the child, and, to little Monique, she is the only mother the black youngster has ever known.

Mrs. Ducharm said the couple told her they were in show business and would be back for Monique in three weeks. She said they left two baby suits, an extra diaper and $100.

She said that when Monique was three months old, her mother called to say she was in a Las Vegas jail for stabbing her husband. One year later, she came back to see the child. That was almost five years ago and she hasn't returned, Mrs. Ducharm said.

"We sit and watch television and have ice cream cones at night," Mrs. Ducharm says of Monique. "And every night she says, 'Good night, Mother. I love you. I love you, Mother.'"

Mrs. Ducharm, a widow with three grown daughters, lives in a trailer home. Her only income is $125 a month from Social Security and $75 a month from the sale of a house.

Last summer, Mrs. Ducharm said she sought medical aid for Monique's asthma condition through the Washoe County Welfare Division, and as a result a case worker learned Mrs. Ducharm was not the girl's legal guardian.

"They told me they wanted to put Monique up for adoption or in a foster home," Mrs. Ducharm said. "I just sat down and cried. They said I was too old to have her and that my trailer was too small. 'I told them they're not going to take her away from me. She's just like my own.'"

Charge dismissed

Charges of illegal possession and consumption of alcohol against Randall J. East, 17, Amboy, were dismissed in Lee County Circuit Court Tuesday.

A reported egg-throwing incident at cars on the East-West Tollway led sheriff's deputies to East's arrest July 17.

In other court action: Allan Ullrich, 22, Amboy, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct. He had been arrested at the Standard Station in Amboy by Lee County Sheriff's deputies.

Jeffrey Hamilton, 17, 1126 N. Jefferson Ave., pleaded guilty to possession of alcohol as a minor. He received a $35 fine for the offense which occurred at the parking lot of Al and Leda's Pizzeria July 1.

Dennis R. Goldie, 17, 1302 Hemlock Ave., was fined $75 after he pleaded guilty to criminal damage to property. He was arrested for ripping up iron bars behind South Side Hardees on July 11. Charges of illegal possession and transportation of liquor as a minor were dismissed.

Alex Joseph, 39, self-described polygamist and would-be homesteader, sits with two of his children and seven of the 13 women he claims as wives. The children are Marlane and Mason Alexander. The wives, clockwise from left rear, are Joan, Malinda, Paulette, Judy, Dale, Margaret and Carmen. They homestead near Glen Canyon City, Utah. (AP Wirephoto)

Sterling farm specializes in purebred Arabian horses

By JUDY SCHMIDT
Once referred to as the "cadillac of horses", a purebred Arabian is a truly majestic creature. Being the oldest known purebred breed of livestock, going back 3500 years, they are today the most versatile and intelligent horse in the United States.

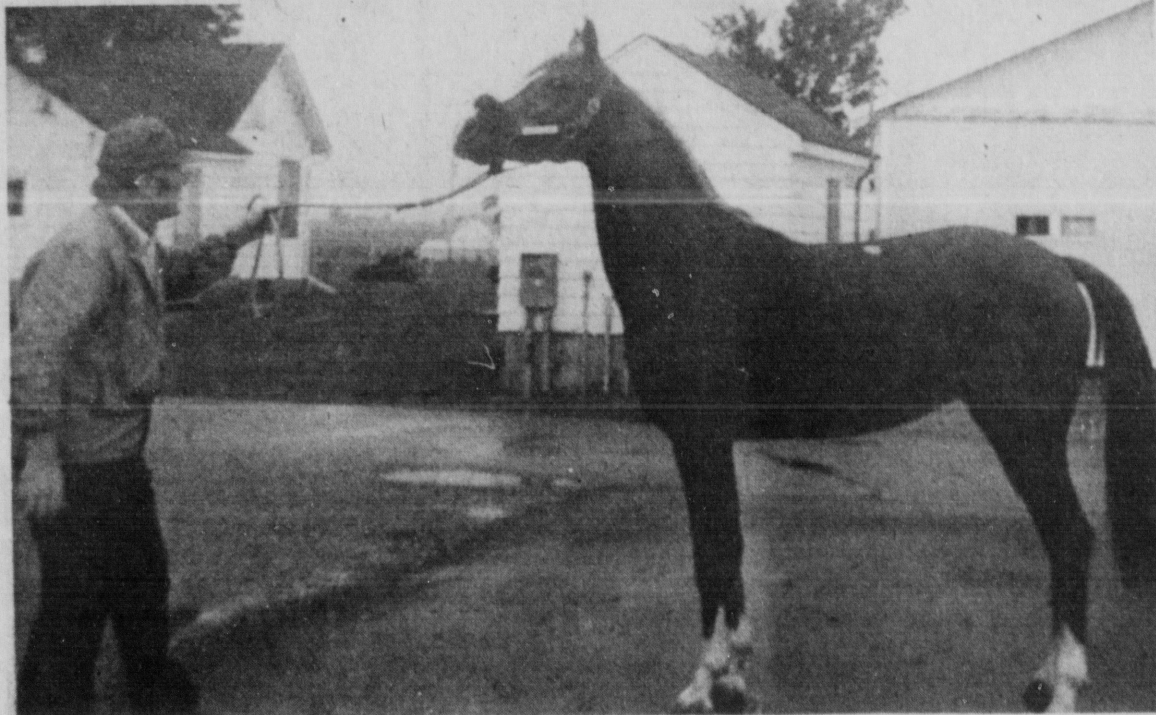

Professionally, they show well under English or western saddle, compete in buggy and roadster class (similar to sulky races) and excel as jumpers and cutting horses.

Weighing between 1000 to 1100 pounds, they can carry a quarter of their own weight around all day. They have invincible endurance and originally were ridden by Arabs over desert sands. The mares were preferred over the stallions, for their disposition and personality.

Arabian horses are minus two to three bones in their skeletal makeup plus one vertebrae and their bones are closely related to ivory. Because of these characteristics, it has been found that they are less prone toward problems within the skeletal system.

The breed had been run in Poland and England for many years and then gained popularity in the States when they were brought to Southern California.

One of the earlier importers of Arabians lived in Grand Detour and an interest has generated in the Rock River area ever since. Though there are Arabian owners in Dixon and Rock Falls, on a small scale, the largest and most elaborate place is the Harvey Farm in Sterling, owned and operated by Jim and Crete Huddleston.

They have approximately sixty-five head of horses, immaculate and well groomed, each with a separate box stall.

The Huddlestons have owned and worked with horses half their lives but it was only twelve years ago that they started with Arabians when they purchased their first stud horse.

They continued to buy, breed, raise and sell until they were involved in practically every phase of the Arabian horse world.

Each year they make the circuit with their show horses, and a room full of brilliant colored ribbons attests to the fact that they are all winners.

Jim proudly mentions that they have had a National Champion cutting horse, a 22-year-old western pleasure horse that came up in the top ten and a Reserve (2nd place) National champion that worked over obstacles and went on to become a movie star.

The horse was called "Tahlot" and after he left the Harvey farms at the age of three, he traveled around in shows for awhile until a physician in California purchased him.

Through him, Tahlot got his first big break in show biz and went on to star weekly on the "Virginians," a once popular TV series.

But then, celebrities are not uncommon with the horse set.

The Huddlestons were involved in the making of a promotional film "The Proud Breed", with recording star Wayne Newton and have worked on tapes with stars John Davidson and actress Sue Ann Langdon.

They all share memberships in the International Arabian Horse Association and Jim is past president of the National Assn. of Cutting Horses, where he was instrumental in upgrading and changing the image of the cutting horse shows.

The show circuit can be made almost year round. They may start in Arizona in February, go down south in May, then play in Milwaukee, Wis. or Des Moines, Iowa. There are plenty of opportunities to travel when you own Arabians but it can be just as exciting at home when there's a newborn foal in the barn or in the case of the Harvey farm, usually more than one.

Basically, their sociable nature makes them good company and a natural companion for adults and children alike.

To quote a couple of Arabian horse admirers, the South African novelist Stuart Cloete wrote, "The Arabian horse is one of the few, perhaps the only, domestic animal which cannot be improved."

And Texas writer Claude Stansh best sums it up when he calls it "The ideal horse, a model for all other horses, one of the wonders of the world."

Items being sought for Filipiniana collection at NIU

DEKALB — Filipinos throughout the United States are being asked to help scholars who have established an American Filipiniana collection here.

Dr. Donn Hart, director of Northern Illinois University's Center for Southeast Asian Studies, is asking for all types of publications, ranging from fiesta programs to news releases to speeches or any publications issued by the hundreds of Filipino civic, political or professional organizations in the United States.

"We want to plead with Filipinos who are members of these associations to donate copies of their publications whether they're printed, mimeographed or just typewritten," Hart says. "Not only does the center seek current materials, but materials published in the past are of equal value."

NIU's center has been building its American Filipiniana collection for several years, Hart adds, noting that an effort is made to subscribe to all local Filipino newspapers now published in the United States. Back issues also have been obtained when available and Hart hopes to obtain more through this appeal.

More than a score of such papers are published now in California, Hawaii, Illinois, New York and the state of Washington, Hart said.

"Permit the center to preserve these valuable publications for you so scholars who may wish to reconstruct the 'early days' of Filipino communities in this country or who wish to study current programs, achievements and problems of the rapidly expanding Filipino population will not be handicapped," Hart said.

"The collection will be open, without charge, to all responsible individuals who wish to consult its holdings."

Donated materials should be sent to Dr. Donn V. Hart, Center for Southeast Asian Studies, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, IL 60115.

Successful debut for Evanston Farmers Market

Opening day of the Evanston Farmers Market was such a success that a number of farmers were sold out by mid-morning. Others made the round trip twice, coming back with a second truck-load which was again sold out by afternoon.

One producer commented that he had sold more in one day than in weeks of selling at his roadside stand. The success of the first downtown open air Farmers Market in Evanston proves that city people are hungry for fresh home-grown produce and will turn out early in the morning in order to get it.

Dixon's Farmers Market, under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, will start Saturday morning at the parking lot across from City Hall.

Every Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. the city of Evanston will block off Benson Avenue between Clark Street and University Place to provide space for farmers' trucks and portable stands. The street, which is one block north of Marshall Fields' in downtown Evanston, is in the main shopping and business district of the city. High density residential areas in Evanston, nearby suburbs and the north side of Chicago contain half a million people with easy access to the market.

Because of the success of opening day with its accompanying newspaper and television coverage, the market expects to attract many more people in the coming weeks and needs more farmers to make produce available to them.

Growers of fruits, vegetables, edible grains, nuts, berries, honey and apiary products, maple sugars and syrups, eggs, live plants, trees, shrubs and cut flowers, are all invited to apply.

Accused by wife

Douglas Hartley, 25, West Brooklyn, was arrested by state police early today on a complaint for battery.

The complaint against Hartley was signed by his wife, Peggy. Mrs. Hartley accused her husband of beating her up on Saturday. She also told authorities she received several cuts when he kicked a door glass in.

Hartley has posted bond and is scheduled to appear in court Aug. 21.

Fire in dump

The Dixon Rural Fire Department was called to extinguish a fire at a dump along Bloody Gulch Road, southwest of Dixon.

According to reports, a truck caught fire after it fell into the dump. The truck was owned by Les Joyn Trucking. Damage to the truck was not estimated.

Study of superplants at University of Iowa

It is now known that some types of plants, called "C4," can be up to 100 per cent more productive than other plants—a fact that could have great implications for the cost and supply of food.

Among those concerned with why some plants are so much more productive than others is

University of Iowa Assistant Professor of Botany Robert A. Kennedy, whose research centers around the complex chemistry responsible for high plant productivity.

Kennedy believes that once we understand exactly what makes some plants more productive, it may be possible through breeding or chemical treatment to extend such productivity levels to some crop plants.

As it is now, about 90 per cent of our crop plants fall into the less productive C3 grouping.

According to Kennedy, corn, sugar cane, sorghum and some grasses are among the few crops producing C4 plants. Most C4 plants are what might be called weeds. In fact, Kennedy says, "The list of productive C4 plants reads like a 'Who's Who of Weeds.'" The ability of such weeds to out-produce and outgrow most crops is a sad fact of life which Kennedy would like to see change.

The U of I botanist says that basically the secret to the productivity of C4 plants is their ability to grow and maintain themselves with only one type of energy consumption or respiration. Less productive C3 plants have a special type of daytime photo-respiration that uses up plant growth and maintenance energy almost as fast as the plant makes such photosynthetic energy. The result is that C3 plants have less energy left over for man to harvest as a food crop.

Kennedy also says that C3 plants waste a great deal of water and carbon dioxide which are the raw materials used to make sugar and other food stuffs.

Much of Kennedy's research involves studying the chemistry of a C4 weed called purslane. He feels a complete understanding of what makes such weeds so productive may ultimately allow plant breeders to incorporate this characteristic into food-producing plants.

Kennedy says another likely possibility is to treat less productive plants with chemicals that will cause them to function like the more productive plants.

ISU prexy collected $3,000 in sick pay after he resigned

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — More than $3,000 in accrued sick pay was given to a former president of Illinois State University at Normal after he resigned, an auditor general's report shows.

The payment was made to Dr. David Berlo, who resigned in the summer of 1973 after serving two years. It was authorized by the Board of Regents although the same benefits are denied other officials who resign, according to ISU Comptroller Harold Burns.

Berlo's resignation came in the wake of criticism of Illinois State University and other state universities for cost overruns in state construction of university presidents' homes.

The firm performing the annual audit for ISU noted that accrued sick pay generally is not paid to officials after they resign and recommended that "personnel policies be applied consistently."

In his report, Auditor General Robert Cronson said: "This Office strongly supports the auditors' recommendation and views the action by the Board of Regents in this instance as at least an abuse of discretion."

Burns said Berlo was paid

$3,115.40 for 20 days of accrued sick time at $155.70 per day.

"To the best of my knowledge, sick pay is not paid to any personnel after they resign," Burns said in a telephone interview. "I think the audit report is accurate."

Dr. Franklin Matsler, executive director of the Board of Regents, said the sick payment was authorized in an attempt to give Dr. Berlo some compensation in lieu of the six-month notice of termination that is generally required in contracts with university presidents.

"We felt it best to accept his resignation immediately," Dr. Matsler said. "We were trying to provide an equitable situation for Dr. Berlo."

"I think probably we made a mistake," he added. "I would advise the board to do differently if it came up now."

Dr. Berlo was a source of controversy when it was learned that the cost of building the president's mansion in Normal was likely to exceed by more than 50 per cent the Board of Higher Education's $150,000 limit on the use of state funds for presidents' homes.

Reaction to energy windmills sought

URBANA—Windmills have been redesigned to produce electricity more efficiently, and energy planners want to know if people would mind seeing such windmills on various landscapes across the nation.

A study of public reactions to the new windmills will be made in five areas from coast to coast by the Survey Research Laboratory of the University of Illinois.

Prof. Robert Ferber, laboratory director, said this should reveal the extent to which people may object to windmills on different types of landscapes and which people are likely to raise objections.

The study is being funded by a $147,800 grant from the National Science Foundation and the Energy Research and Development Administration. It will begin this fall and be completed in a year.

The windmills are not the picturesque "Dutch" type, nor the farm windmills once numerous and still found in the Midwest and plains areas. Modern, high-efficiency windmills capable of contributing to the nation's energy needs would have wheels 75 to 100 feet in diameter mounted on slender towers 100 to 250 feet high, Ferber said.

Surveys in which pictures of the modern windmills will be shown will be made in regions with different geography and population characteristics:

- In a major metropolitan area, the Chicago suburbs.
- In the plains area of Kansas and the Oklahoma panhandle.
- In the hill country of eastern Wyoming.
- In a hilly, densely settled area in the Pacific Northwest.

—In a flat, heavily settled area on the East Coast.

In each, 400 households will be questioned. They will be selected by probability methods so that every household in the area has an equal chance of being in the sample.

In addition, for pretest purposes, an extra 60 households will be selected in the Chicago area and in the Kansas-Oklahoma area, Ferber said.

As a further part of the study, one windmill will be built in a national park on the Atlantic Coast, where public reaction to the idea will be checked before the windmill is built and again after it is built.

"Growing public interest in all phases of the environment suggests that, apart from questions of operating efficiency, public reaction be studied before wind energy devices are erected," Ferber said.

"The question is particularly relevant with windmills, which for maximum efficiency would have to be located in large numbers at various locations in the country and which would occupy highly prominent positions in those locations."

"Whether the public will accept such modification of the landscape may be a major deciding factor in whether plans for using the wind to generate electrical energy can be implemented."

"We have numerous instances of technological developments which are feasible and economical, but which for reasons of public dissatisfaction have had to be modified or discarded," he said.

Anesthetic deaths still a problem

CHICAGO (AP) — Children still face unnecessary risk of cardiac arrest and death while undergoing surgery under anesthesia, a study by a panel of anesthesiologists says.

The study calls for reevaluation of the current teaching and training of anesthesiologists who will be dealing with young surgical patients.

A team headed by Dr. M. Ramez Salem of Cook County (Ill.) Hospital studied 73 cases of cardiac arrest in children under anesthesia at seven institutions between 1960 and 1972. Although resuscitation was accomplished successfully in about two-thirds of the cases, 24 of the children died. Half of the deaths were attributed to cardiovascular factors and half to respiratory factors.

The researchers found the majority of the cardiac arrests were preventable. In an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, they said, "There is a dire need for a wide prospective study at the national level regarding anesthetic deaths and anesthetic cardiac arrest."

Although the researchers did not attempt to determine the overall risk of cardiac arrest from anesthesia, they estimated it is now about one in 3,600, or about half the rate reported by a similar study in 1961.

They pointed out that great scientific and technical progress has been made in the field of pediatric anesthesia in the past 20 years — making cases of cardiac arrest that do occur all the more avoidable.

The study indicated the commonest cause of heart stoppage and death in the cases reviewed was blood loss. Dr. Salem and his associates said this could have been prevented by having blood on hand in cases where excessive blood loss might be anticipated, preparing for blood transfusions in advance and more accurate assessment of blood loss.

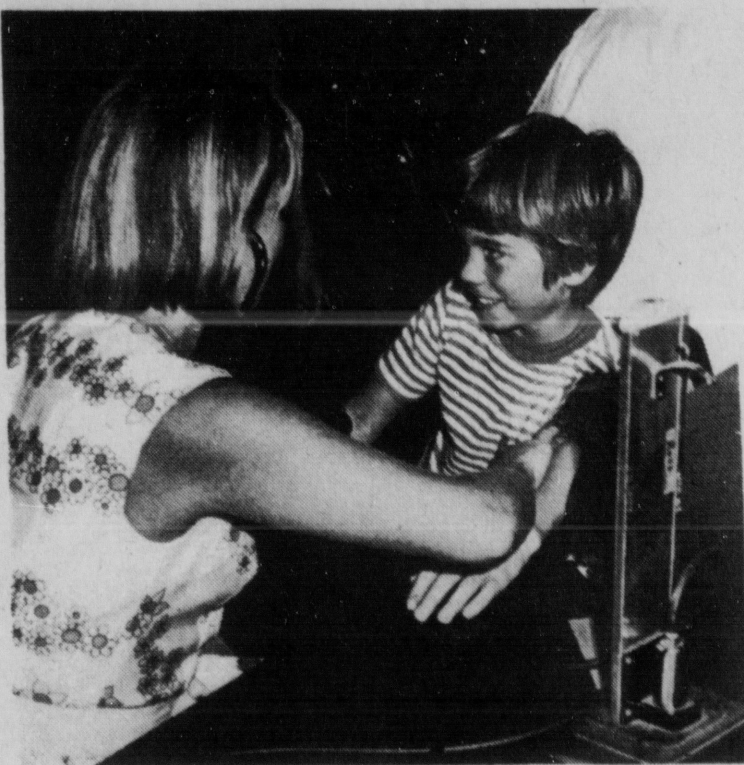

Another leading cause of death was severe retention of carbon dioxide in the blood, which the study indicated could have been avoided by more adequate ventilation in one case. In another case, the carbon dioxide buildup was caused by the accidental turning off of a carbon dioxide absorber.

The anesthesiologists said another cause of avoidable cardiac arrest was the practice of stopping breathing support before the patient had fully awakened.

Several cases of heart stoppage were traced to the accidental administration of potassium compounds.

The mistaken use of a muscle relaxant called succinylcholine, which releases potassium from the muscles, also was a factor in a number of cases, although the researchers pointed out that the majority of such cases occurred before 1965, when the dangers of the drug were not fully known.

The other investigators for the study were Dr. Edward J. Bennett of the University of Illinois, Dr. John F. Schweiss of St. Louis University, Dr. Anis Baraka of the American University of Beirut, Dr. Fazleali Y. Dalal of Loyola University and Dr. Vincent J. Collins of Cook County Hospital.

DOESN'T HURT A BIT! Smiling young citizen gets his blood pressure checked by Heart Association volunteer in Marin County, Calif. More than 23 million Americans have high blood pressure, which greatly increases the risk of stroke, heart attack and kidney failure. A "silent" disease that has no special symptoms, high blood pressure is easily detected and usually controllable, according to the American Heart Association. Untreated, high-blood pressure will contribute to more than 500,000 deaths in 1975.

Companies tightening their policies for paying bills

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Send a small bill to a very large corporation, even if you supplied it with no product or service, and there is some chance you'll get paid. Less chance perhaps than a year ago, but still a chance.

The reason is that some companies have a policy of automatically paying very small bills, reasoning that to check all of them would result in an even greater cost. And in some companies they're just careless. Bogus bills slip by.

With an emphasis on cost controls, however, companies have tightened their bill-paying practices, and so the defrauder has to be more sophisticated. He must adapt to his environment, and sometimes he does it well.

One of the cleverest schemes today involves the bogus bill for distributing a company's annual report and proxy materials. Hundreds of companies are paying for such "services" and receiving nothing of value.

The background: Brokerage houses often buy stock for their customers and keep it in "street name," meaning the name of the brokerage house. The corporation sometimes never knows who these stockholders are.

But, for investment and public relations purposes, the corporation wants to keep in touch with these shareholders. It agrees to pay the brokers 50 cents for each set of proxy materials the brokers order and distribute.

In the course of a year a publicly held company might get orders from dozens of brokerage houses, orders that it automatically fills and for which it pays 50 cents per order, a fee set by the N.Y. Stock Exchange.

This provides the opportunity for what appears to be hundreds of small-time operators to seek to be distributors of annual reports. They set up business and christen themselves with one of those long, brokerage house-type names.

They submit their orders on official-looking forms for 20 or 25 reports and then quickly follow with their bills. Usually they keep them below $25 so there'll be less chance of being questioned.

One corporate secretary, T.C. Tyler Jr. of J.M. Smucker Co., found that such phony bills, if paid, would have cost his company $5,000 in one year, to say nothing of the postage and printing costs involved. Many annual reports cost in excess of $2 a copy to print.

Dukes split doubleheader

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer
EAST MOLINE — Doug Devine's two-run double capped a three-run third inning, here, Tuesday night as the Dixon Dukes downed East Moline American Legion 5-3 behind the strong pitching of Gregg Mullery. East Moline took the first game 9-2 of the doubleheader with a seven-run sixth inning. It took six tries, but the Dukes finally managed to get a lead on East Moline in the first inning. Mullery reached on a two-out single and proceeded to swipe second base. With switch-hitter Doug Devine at bat hitting leftie, Legion third baseman Chuck Cox shifted over toward third. Mullery, seeing the man far off his base, made a break toward third. Legion pitcher Mike Gould panicked and threw the ball wildly to third and Mullery trotted home with Dixon's initial run. The 1-0 Dukes margin marked the first time in six contests in a two-year span that Dixon held a lead over East Moline. In the first five meetings, the Legion squad had outscored Dixon 52-5. Dixon pushed three big breathing room runs across in the third as Zinnen walked and Mullery added his own cause with a hit advancing the runner. Devine then connected and smashed a line drive double over the rightfielder plating both runners. A passed ball and a wild pitch later Dixon led 4-0. Guy Price collected a key run-scoring single in the seventh driving Devine home with what proved to be an important insurance run. Price's RBI base-hit to center came with two outs. Mullery breezed through the first six innings hurling shut out baseball on just three hits. East Moline threatened in the fifth when it loaded the bases with two outs, but Mullery got a hard grounder to Barry Barton at third for the final out. Mullery lost his shut out in the seventh as East Moline pushed three runs across on four hits, highlighted by a Ky Mercer two-run homer over the rightfield fence. Vince Melendrez made a fine catch in the inning to help choke off the Legion rally as the Dixon rightfielder raced over into right-centerfield to grab a line drive destined for at least two bases and two runs. The win for Mullery marks the senior's fourth straight victory and ups his season record to five wins and two losses. In the first game, Dixon was in the contest up to the home team's half of the sixth as East Moline tallied seven times to pull away to a 9-2 victory. Melendrez (8-4) was the victim of the heavy scoring. East Moline scored lone unearned runs in the second and third. Throwing errors set-up one score and allowed another run to cross the plate as Dixon found itself down 2-0 after three. Devine, who went three-for-five on the evening and drove in three runs, doubled Melendrez home in the fourth to cut the margin in half. Barton lined a base-hit off the leftfielder's glove to chase Devine home with the tying score. The Dukes had two chances to take the lead and give Melendrez something to work on, but were unable to score either time. Dan Kopacz opened the fifth with a double and was sacrificed to third, but was left stranded. Devine started the sixth with a hit and took to third on a wild pick-off throw. Three outs later Devine was still standing on third base and the score stood at 2-2. Melendrez pitched well for five innings but East Moline started to hit the leftie in the sixth. Four hits, a walk and three costly errors pushed the seven deciding runs across. Dixon closes its second season Thursday night in a doubleheader versus Rock Falls at Reynolds Field at 6 p.m. The Dukes will be trying to improve their impressive 26-11 overall season record against the American Legion team.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Krahenbuhl and Mr. and Mrs. L. Shoaf teamed up for a 69 to capture first place in the two ball foursome at the Dixon Country Club recently. Taking second were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coakley and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hansen with a 74. In third with a 76 was Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Detweiler. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Owens and Mr. and Mrs. William Short teamed up for fourth with a 76.

The Country Club also sponsored a driving contest for boys and girls. In the boys division, Mark Clevenger drove the ball 75 yards to win the seven-year-old division. In the eight-year-olds, Bob Dixon took first with 90 yards while Bill Densmore won the 10 division with 185 yards. Tim Castelli hit the ball 175 yards to take the 11 class while Rick Schmidt whacked the ball 190 yards to take the 12 year class. Brock Lofgren drove 220 yards to capture the 13 division. A total of 40 boys competed. In the girls division, 22 entrants took part. Kirsta Yount took the seven-year-old division with 65 yards and Sheila Wart taking the eight-year-olds with 85 yards. A drive of 100 yards earned Amy Magdich honors in the 10 classes while Marta Simon won the 11 class with 125 yards. Kim Taylor took the 12 class with 100 yards.

THRILL OF VICTORY—Rep. Martin Russo, D-Ill., leaps for joy after scoring winning run in the Democrats' 3-2 victory over the Republicans in the annual congressional baseball game in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Congratulating Russo is Rep. Ron Mottl, D-Ohio, the winning pitcher, while Rep. Don Clausen, R-Calif., GOP first baseman, looks on. Rep. Bill Frezel, R-Minn., GOP catcher, who was bowled over by Russo, sits this one out. (AP Wirephoto)

Correction

After closer checking of tournament statistics, it was discovered that Rod Ritenour of the Chadwick Silver Streaks had the highest batting average in the Dixon Invitational last weekend. Ritenour went 6-10 for a .600 average.

As stated in Monday's Telegraph, Dan McGrail led with a .583 average. McGrail will receive a second-place plaque, while the Outstanding Hitter award will be mailed to Ritenour.

LAKE GENEVA—The Dixon High School Varsity cheerleaders won fourth-place honors at the United States Cheerleaders Association "Camps All-American" held recently at the Lake Geneva Campus of George Williams College. The Dixon squad, by placing at this camp, are now qualified to enter the USCA National Grand Championships to be held in August at Michigan State University. The Dixon squad will probably decline the invitation due to the financial cost of entering the national competition. Bo Weber, 1975 Petunia Queen, also brought home a trophy for Dixon when she was chosen "Prettiest Cheerleader" at the campout of a field of over 200 girls. This is the second straight year that Miss Weber won this title, duplicating her honors previously won at the University of Iowa in the summer of 1974. First-place honors at the camp went to Evergreen High School of Forest Park—a Chicago suburb. The top squads are determined by nightly competition. Each night achievement ribbons are given to the top five squads in each division and Dixon received a fifth, third, and a first. The varsity received their first-place ribbon with a cheer featuring the DHS "flying chair" and they received a standing ovation for this cheer in competition. Three members of the Dixon Junior Varsity squad entered the four-and-under division and made a good showing. Lynn Camery, Janet Collins and Diane Johnson received second and third-place ribbons. Tami Trulock received four second-place ribbons in the junior high division. The girls also received a "skit" award for a skit called the Wizard of Oz. Amy Densmore and Jenni Ulrich traveled to Lake Geneva with their parents, where they participated with the cheerleaders in the skit. Members of the varsity squad in staircase fashion from left are DaVonna Miller, Janet Walker, Bo Weber, Patty Sitter and Diane Hummel. Marie Lemme is beneath Sitter while Tina Miller is at bottom right holding Debbie Anderson. (Telegraph Photo)

Archers lose two

Mecum Pontiac of Marengo utilized four homers to sweep a doubleheader from the Dixon Archers in semi-pro baseball action Sunday at Reynolds Field. Mecum took the first game 3-2 as Mike Carr belted a two-run homer in the fourth inning. The Archers pushed across one run in the fifth and sixth innings but fell one tally short. Joe Fichter took the loss. Dan Willard and Jay Woodin slammed out two hits each for Dixon. In the nightcap, Mecum

Earlville nips Dixon

The Dixon Archers wasted a pair of Tom Wentling solo home runs in dropping a 4-3 decision to the Earlville Rangers at Reynolds Field Tuesday night. Earlville scored four times in the final three innings to post the victory. Joe Fichter gave up seven hits in getting the loss. Wentling's pair of homers paced a six-hit Archers attack. Dixon now hosts Blackhawk for a doubleheader next Tuesday.

The A's are in gear Reggie knows why

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's, cruising toward their fifth straight division championship, are in high gear and slugger Reggie Jackson knows why.

"Last year I had a pretty good season," said Jackson, "and I didn't get much of a raise—only five grand. Charlie Finley (A's owner) wants results. The man I work for is hard to deal with."

"If we get five runs, I want 10. I don't want no rest until October...October 20. The time to play ball is now and make that money."

The A's brought their salary drive into Detroit Tuesday night and manhandled the Tigers 11-0, 16-4. The lop-sided twin-bill saw the A's collect 24 base hits off five Detroit pitchers.

Rangers 4, Indians 0
"Now that's the way I'm supposed to pitch, pardner" said Texas righty Gaylord Perry. "It was starting to get embarrassing."

Perry, apparently in the groove now after a rocky start with the Rangers, tossed a brilliant two-hitter against his ex-teammates, struck out 13 batters and retired the last 22 he faced. It was his third shut-out in his last four outings and upped his record to 9-14.

Orioles 8, Angels 3
Baltimore bombed Angel ace Nolan Ryan for six runs in 1-3 innings and handed him his eighth consecutive loss. Ryan, 10-11, has not won since June 6. Tommy Davis and Don Baylor hit home runs, Brooks Robinson had a two-run single and Mike Cuellar, 9-6, pitched a nine-hitter for the winners.

Red Sox 5, Twins 4
Carlton Fisk's two-run single in the third capped a three-run rally that carried Boston to victory. Rookie Jim Rice added a run-scoring triple for the Red Sox who maintained their six-game lead in the AL East. Rod Carew homered for Minnesota.

Yankees 11, White Sox 6
Sandy Alomar hit three doubles and Bobby Bonds had two to pace New York. Catfish Hunter, 13-9, bested Jim Kaat, 14-7. Pat Kelly boomed a three-run homer for Chicago.

Royals 3-3, Brewers 2-6
Vada Pinson and Buck Martinez hit home runs to give Kansas City the first-game victory. Steve Busby, 12-8, got the win with relief help from Paul George Scott and Don Money blasted two-run homers as Milwaukee rallied in the nightcap. Tom Hausman, 3-2, got the victory with 5 1-3 innings of five-hit relief.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
There is a small bruise on the back of Philadelphia Phillies' catcher Johnny Oates. He's not complaining.

There is pain in Steve Carlton's left shoulder and elbow. He's not really complaining, either.

With the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning, Oates was sent up as a pinch-hitter by Manager Danny Ozark. His grounder to second produced an easy force at home, but Oates was hit in the back by the relay of what should have been a painless double play.

The ball caromed into short right field, allowing Greg Luzinski to score from second base with Philadelphia's run in a 1-0 triumph over Atlanta Tuesday night.

Carlton, who has suffered from soreness in his pitching arm recently, finished with a three-hitter and his ninth victory—thanks to Oates and the errant throw by Braves catcher Vic Correll.

Padres 1, Pirates 0
An RBI single by Tito Fuentes in the sixth inning helped San Diego hand Pittsburgh its fourth loss in five games. Randy Jones picked up his 12th victory with a seven-hitter as the Padres snapped a three-game losing streak despite a combined six-hitter by Bruce Kison and Dave Giusti.

Mets 3, Reds 1
Left-hander Jerry Koosman pitched a six-hitter and surprised everybody by stealing second base in the third inning on the way to his victory. "Nobody in the ballpark expected me to steal," said Koosman after his first career theft led to the winning run. The Cincinnati infield certainly didn't expect the Koosman larceny; when catcher Johnny Bench pegged to second in an effort to catch the pitcher, no one was covering the bag.

Expos 2, Astros 1
Gary Carter's third hit of the game, an 11th inning single with Pepe Mangual on second, lifted Montreal past Houston. Mangual had opened the inning with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice before Larry Bittner was walked intentionally to set up a double play.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 3
Mario Guerrero's 11th-inning sacrifice fly lifted St. Louis over Los Angeles. After Ron Fairly led off with a single and reached third on a Willie Davis double, Guerrero lofted his game-winning flyball of relief ace Mike Marshall.

Giants 9, Cubs 5
Willie Montanez supplied San Francisco's power with a two-run home run, a single and a sacrifice fly for four RBI. Montanez homered in the four-run fifth inning that wiped out a 4-3 Chicago lead.

STATE OF ILLINOIS
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
For Work to be Constructed
Under The Illinois Highway Code

1. Time and Place of Opening Bids. Sealed proposals for the improvement of the thoroughfare (s) described herein will be received at the office of the Council of Dixon, Lee County, Illinois, until 10:00 o'clock A.M., August 4, 1975, and at that time publicly opened and read.

2. Description of Work. (a) The proposed improvement is officially known as Section Beanblossom Parking Lot and Alley Improvement and is located between Galena Avenue and Hennepin Avenue and between River Street and Commercial Alley.

(b) The proposed improvement consists of sidewalks, curb and gutter, base course, bituminous surface, lighting and necessary related work.

3. Instructions to Bidders. (a) Plans and proposal forms may be obtained from the Municipal Engineer Willett, Hofmann and Associates, Inc., 809 E. Second Street, Dixon, Illinois 61021. (b) All proposals must be accompanied by a bank cashier's check, bank draft, or certified check for not less than ten (10) per cent of the amount of the bid, or as provided in Article 102.09 of the "Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction," prepared by the Department of Transportation of the State of Illinois.

4. Rejection of Bids. The Council reserves the right to reject any or all proposals as provided in Article 102.08 of the "Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction," prepared by the Department of Transportation of the State of Illinois.

By order of the Council of Dixon, Illinois.
Mrs. Mary Cook, City Clerk.

Ted Hendricks is looking

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Ted Hendricks is looking, Francis Peay is moving, Nick Buoniconti is returning, but Marv Fleming is still missing.

"On a scale of 1 to 10, I'd say I'm 9.99 disappointed at not being able to play here," Hendricks said of the Green Bay Packers. "I was very happy here."

But Hendricks and the Pack were unable to agree on terms for this season. So the linebacker, who set a National Football League record in 1974 with seven blocked kicks, is looking for another team.

Hendricks' agent, A.J. Roberts of Miami, said he and the Packers did not even get far enough in their negotiations to discuss salary in their final meeting Tuesday.

"We wanted some sort of insurance against injury and couldn't get it," Roberts said. Bart Starr, the new Packers' coach and general manager, said Hendricks and Roberts "were asking for certain fringes we couldn't live with. I think they were being a little unfair in that."

Peay, once a No. 1 draft pick of the New York Giants and then a star offensive lineman with the Packers, was traded again—this time from the Kansas City Chiefs to the New Orleans Saints for an undisclosed draft choice.

The 31-year-old Peay, a nine-year NFL veteran, played the last two seasons with the Chiefs. Buoniconti, the Miami Dolphins' middle linebacker, prepared for the 1975 season after spending the off-season as a lawyer.

"I really don't know how long I'm going to play," said Buoniconti, who's entering his 14th NFL season. "I've been playing on a year-to-year basis."

The Washington Redskins have just about given up the search for Fleming, a tight end obtained from the Dolphins in an off-season trade. Fleming still hasn't shown up at the Redskins' camp and Washington Coach George Allen said if the veteran fails to report the trade would be cancelled.

For Thursday, July 24, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Cool your spending urges till later in the day. You'll be extravagant earlier to satisfy what could be a foolish whim.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Frustration rules your pursuit of desires early in the day. After midday, a sympathetic person soothes your feelings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Your thinking cap is on sideways today. Avoid anything involving reasoning or logic. Seek a light-hearted friend to socialize with.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You start the day feeling like everyone is ganging up on you. Evening brings a turnaround and something you'll like.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Your pursuit of recognition could be futile till you return from work and find that your family appreciates you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
People bring their problems to you today. Just when you feel like screaming, someone does something nice for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Your interest in serious matters wanes easily today, but a romantic interlude could perk you up in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Family or associates will bug you to distraction with trivia early today. Hold off on serious work until later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
This is not the day to work with unfamiliar or dangerous tools. Your mind tends to wander. Relax. Have fun in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You'll have pangs of conscience if you spend a lot living it up. Better stick close to home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You disposition at home drives the family up the wall. By evening you'll all feel better if you go out for a spell.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Speaking before you think can get you in a heap of trouble today. Be quiet. Avoid being caught in the middle.

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH

Hutterites cling to old ways in Montana colony

NEW ROCKPORT COLONY, Mont. (AP) — Samuel, the blacksmith of New Rockport Colony, says he would have liked to have been a physician. That never could have been in his world. He would have had to overthrow more than four centuries of heritage.

Instead, Samuel submitted his will to that of his brethren, became a blacksmith and remained a true Hutterite.

Dressed in a plaid, high-collared shirt, black smock and rumpled, baggy trousers held up with button suspenders, he labors daily in a past-century shed, fashioning the finest of present-century machines from shining surgical steel.

The shed, which also houses a carpenter shop, is the only one of the more than two dozen simple buildings constituting the New Rockport compound or "bruderschaft" which appears to be deteriorating. "We'll probably build a new shop next year," says the blacksmith's daughter, dressed, like every other female in the 99-member colony, in the many-layered and multicolored peasant clothes of 16th century Austrian Tyrol.

New Rockport is one of about 30 Hutterite colonies dotting the vast, sun-drenched plains of Montana, the Dakotas, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The brethren number more than 3,000.

They are followers of Jacob Hutter, a Christian martyr who founded the sect in Austria in 1528. The pious and good-humored Hutterian Brethren thrive economically, religiously and socially.

Theirs is a communal system which has wedded an austere agrarian social life of long ago with the most progressive of 20th century agricultural techniques and tools — the best of both worlds, admirers say.

An occasional urbane visitor, yearning for the quiet of field and farmyard, might find the system initially attractive. But the gulf between ordinary America, rooted in individualism, and Hutterite life, completely dependent on submission of nearly every individual right to the good of the colony, would be too wide for most outsiders to cross.

One outsider who must bridge the gap is the school teacher. The teacher, by state or provincial law, must be a certified and qualified instructor. Since Hutterite academic education ends at eighth grade, no member of the colony could hope to enter the profession.

At New Rockport, the Hutterites provide a small house on the edge of the colony for their teacher.

The school is a bare, gray, one-room edifice with wooden floors glossed by several decades of yearly varnishing.

Behind the half-dozen rows of old-fashioned school desks are several rows of straight-backed and highly varnished benches. The Hutterites gather there each evening for a half-hour church meeting.

The language of worship is German. So is the common household language. So is the language of every child until first grade. All older Hutterites, though comfortable in English, speak with a clipped accent which evidences their European cultural heritage. The Hutterian Brethren first settled in the United States in 1874.

The colony is dominated by men, and older men wield particular influence. The most powerful man is the farm boss, who oversees the entire operation which specializes in poultry (more than 18,000 chickens, ducks and turkeys), swine, dairying and grain.

Prestige does not necessarily follow power, as the colony preacher remains the most respected man. He is allowed an extra piece of furniture, a finely crafted, ceiling-high cabinet desk. The few other items of colony-made furniture, beds, deacons benches, hat racks and hope chests (size depending on proximity to marrying age), are carefully prescribed and allotted by the community.

The community decides nearly everything by democratic vote, including occupation.

A Hutterite youth who aspires to be the colony shoemaker may find himself assigned by the group to the pig barns, if his brethren find him best suited to that task.

Hutterite women all wear blue polka-dotted head scarves. The scarves cover figured and ruffled bonnets which in turn cover hair parted in the middle, tightly drawn to the sides and twisted under at the forehead.

The young girls will show you, with bright, blushing faces and giggles, the colony's "courtroom." The room, in the same building as the kindergarten classroom, is completely without furnishings. But on three sides is built an 18-inch high, six-foot-wide platform.

"The kindergarten children use this room for their naps during the day, but other things go on here at night," said a red-faced and giggling Rebecca, in her early teens.

The kitchen features equipment usually seen in good restaurants. Much of it was built by Samuel, including a room-size stainless steel oven where loaves of bread measuring more than a foot-square are baked in tandem.

The community dining facilities stand between two lines of gray row houses containing several apartments each
